My heart and prayers go out to your family. You were an inspiration to all those who were blessed enough to know you. You were always smiling. Your smile was contagious. You are now free and dancing with the Lord. You will be missed here on earth but when we meet again, my friend, we will celebrate.

Trina, my sweet and beautiful friend. Rest. You are in the arms of your Savior. What a glorious day for you. We miss and mourn you here, but cannot imagine you ANYWHERE else. My thoughts and prayers are for "your boys". I cannot imagine their grief and pain. My hope is that as days pass, the sting of you being gone subsides and they can carry on. Oh, girlie, you will FOREVER be missed, loved, and mourned. For no greater friend and inspiration have I known.

With tears running down my cheeks I read this testimony to a life lived beautifully. Trina was one of a kind and once you met her you'd never forget her. I mourn for the world that doesn't get to have her presence anymore. I mourn for the loss of a great light for Jesus. I do rejoice to know this saint is with her Lord and Savior and she is worshiping with all of her being the One who died for her. I rejoice to know she finished her race here on earth and she finished it well. I rejoice knowing this isn't her end but it is just her beginning. I hope in the fact that I will see her one day again and that she will be spending eternity with her beautiful family that loves her So very much. Thank you Trina for being a beacon of hope that will continue to shine through your children, your husband, your family, and your friends left here on earth. Thank you for living so well that you are so terribly missed.
