this was my grandpa, the greatest grandfather a kid could ask for. he was a lil rough on the edges but still made me who I am today, he showed me so many things. when I was just a little kid he built a little building for me to pay in. the building today is still in his drive way its been through a lot of years and a lot of kids. I love this man I if you know him he would not want all of us sitting around and crying. he always got his work done before he would have some fun but don't get me wrong this man knows how to have some fun. I love you pawpaw your in a way better place now. RIP pop's

Wanda and family. I have been where you are now. It is very difficult to lose your companion of so many years and your children's parent. God sees our grief and feels our loss. I would encourage you to put your grief and feelings of Billy's loss into the hands of a loving God. He will always be available to you. Trust in him. Billy cannot come back here, but you can go to him. If I can be of any service to you or your family, please feel welcome to call on me.
