Maxine, I was thinking about you and Marvin living next door to us back in the 70's. I googled y'all and saw where Marvin had passed away. I'm sure sorry. We remember helping Marvin put together a bike for Randy one Christmas Eve. Lots of fun memories with you next door. Linda and Charles Patrick

Some one once wrote that when someone passes, it's not important to remember how much money they had, or the size of their house, or who they knew, or what car they drove. The most important thing is that when you think about them, do they make you smile?When I think of Marvin, I will always smile!Terry & Amy Keith

I grew up next door to Marvin. He and Maxine were the best neighbors anyone could have. I have a lot of sweet memories of him. Whether I was trick or treating, selling something for school, house sitting etc. He was always so kind to me growing up. I simply loved him and will miss him dearly. My prayers are with Maxine and family.

Marvin was a true gentleman in the trucking industry when many folks could not go through the crazy changes that occurred with buy outs, unusual managements, and many things I remember since the 1970s when we met. Most folks do not know how many trials that occurred during those times but some of do. And we value our time spent with him. The family can be very proud of him!!!!!!!Love you man!!!!RIP brother!!!!Barry CookClemmons,NC
