Drake, I miss you more then you know. I go to pick up the phone and remember. I hold a special letter in my bible and I pray for you all the time. You were such an amazing friend, I miss your laughter, your southern accent and your quotes. This is how I remember you nothing but good. I talk to you when life gets in the way. One thing about you is You changed my life and brought me closer to God. You are still loved & missed God knew we needed each other (thinking oh no what did I do but put "Louisa "Ouiser" and Clairee together. Pink is my signature color. I miss you. 🍷

Not sure if Mr & Mrs Norman read this but I know this is not the way it should be asked but I gave Drake a volcano essential oil bracelet if it would be possible to have it back I would greatly appreciate it, he meant so much to me I wish he and I met again but couldn't because of 2 surgeries. I am sorry for your loss I pray he is at peace.

Oh Drake you knew how much you leaned to me and how much I love you. I am going to miss you every day. You made me laugh and how we would quote movies "Pink is my signature on color". You left me my partner in crime! I have so many memories to keep with me especially your birthday celebration. Enjoy your talks with Princess Margaret I know she was one of the first people you searched for when you arrived. I pray you are at peace and I love you to pieces 🍷❤️❤️🍷❤️❤️🌟

My heart hurts over this so bad. Drake was one of the very very few people that took me under their wing and accepted me for me in high school. We had grown up together in Sunday school class as kids, but lost touch over the years when I moved out to Colorado. However, when I moved back, so much had changed in my life— but Drake remained one thing that hadn't, and was constant, and for that reason very familiar and comforting. I moved back as a hardcore Colorado-turned hippie of sorts— southern accent watered down, Birkenstocks and socks, etc. Nothing about me was even remotely similar, but Drake welcomed me and accepted me with open arms. It was almost as if we were able to pick up right off from where we left— everything had changed, but nothing, at the same time. Drake was still his fun loving, hysterical self. I used to eat lunch in the bathroom stalls some days, and just cry over not fitting in. However, Drake always managed to make me laugh deep hard belly laughs on those days. Needless to say, he was a phenomenal person— and an even better companion. My heart is absolutely breaking over this, and his family is in my prayers wholeheartedly. Mental health MAT TERS. This is something very near and dear to my heart, that hits really close to home. You literally never ever know what someone is going through, so we must be kind to everyone we cross paths with— period. You matter and have worth and value, no matter what your mind is telling you in that moment. ❤️

I can't even put into words the impact Drake had. I was a first year teacher when I met him and he always had a smile on his face and a story to tell. He made me smile and laugh every day. He had a big heart and was there for everyone. He was an incredible human being and the world will not be the same without him. My sincerest condolences for the Norman family. Drake will be missed by so many.

Drake was one of the most authentic people I've ever met. I first met him in 6th grade Language Arts but really got to know him in high school through the Youth Group at WCUMC. I will always cherish the memories of working with him on mission trips, volunteering at VBS with him, and even just the simple phone calls to stay in touch. He was a genuine, driven individual who devoted himself to his faith and strived to live each moment to its fullest. He was a great friend and I'm so glad I was able to know him. My most sincere and heartfelt condolences to his family and loved ones.

Drake, you were like my baby brother I never got. I can't believe this. I'm so sorry you felt alone, and I wish you would have reached out to me. I just spoke to you a few days ago. The kids will miss "uncle Drake". I don't have the heart to tell them you're gone. We got so close when you were in Spartanburg and we worked together at Penny's. I'm heartbroken that we grew apart after my wedding, but I'm still honored that you were our best man. We love you dearly. I have so many photos, but here are just a few. To the family, I know that nothing I say will ever bring you comfort, as I have also lost a brother in the same manor. I am so sorry for this loss, and I pray you find comfort and know how loved Drake was by those around you. May God bring you comfort and peace in this trying time.

Sweet Drake - you were so special to me and to Morgan. You brought smiles to our faces and made us laugh. In this picture it was YOUR idea to go grab some milkshakes so, after VBS, that is what we did. I think we closed the place down just sitting outside getting brain freeze and talking. You were the one person who helped Morgan feel welcome at WCUMC - you always made it a point to speak to her and help her feel comfortable. As a mom I'll always appreciate that about you. What a beautiful heart and soul you have. We love you and will miss you. ~ Monica and Morgan Humpal
